SINCE BLAINE has taken to pen and ink, we speak of him as a gopher-natural candidate.

If BLAINE can't make use of an elbow at Minneapolis, let him try the insanity racket.

THE PRESIDENT is getting another outfit. He should get himself used to it before March 4, 1893.

THE HOTEL proprietors didn't have to lay in a supply of new cots to accommodate the Tuscarora Republicans.

"HOLMAN is right," says the Cincinnati Enquirer. "It takes all the money this Congress has to cover the deficiencies created by the last Congress."

THE GEORGIA watermelon season must be somewhat backward, as we see the Democratic convention yesterday was not entirely harmonious at Atlanta.

ALMOST AS SOON as Colonel GARZA's revolution stuck its nose out of the chapparal where it had been so long hiding, it fell a victim to the far-reaching larist.

AMONG the prominent names mentioned for governor of Idaho on the Democratic ticket is that of J. M. BALLANTINE, late member of the legislature, an old-timer and well known ranchman and stock dealer.

PHILADELPHIANS are called on to lament the failure of their mint appropriation just as the jury brings in a million dollar verdict against the Keystone bank. But then Boss QUAY is flourishing like a green bay.

WHILE it is true that the two-thirds rule is a tradition in the Democratic party in the nomination for President, for thirty years the usage has been, as soon as a candidate receives a majority, to unite the party upon him.

IT LOOKS as though the desperate attempt of FORAKER to retrieve his fallen political fortunes in Ohio by the grand stratagem of pitting JOHN SHERMAN, his ancient foe, against HARRISON, has turned out to be a flat failure. FORAKER wants to get SHERMAN out of the Senate, for a reason which may be guessed.

WHILE many of the public men of Congress have thought fit to combine against the nomination of CLEVELAND, some of the most admired have stood by him with unwavering fidelity. Among these is Hon. WILLIAM L. WILSON, of West Virginia. In a recent interview he says:

In my judgment and observation, Mr. CLEVELAND is the one man who can unite most of the opposition to the Republican party. The immense and steadily increasing number of voters at the north who stand somewhat detached from either party are ready for Mr. CLEVELAND. Everywhere I have heard men say: "If the Democrats nominate CLEVELAND I will vote my first Democratic ticket."

THE TOTAL cost of manufacturing a ton of steel rails including salaries, taxation, repairs and transportation to market is, in England, $18.61; in America, $24.06. The difference in favor of the American is $5.45, and that, says Mr. SPENCER, of the House Ways and Means committee, is what the duty ought to be, and not a penny more, but instead of this the McKinley bill provides a duty of $13.44 a ton. In the figures given of this total cost, every conceivable item of expense and cost has been included, so that the McKinley duty, in addition to protecting the manufacturer to the extent of the $5.45 a ton, which he, perhaps, ought to have, gives him an actual bonus of $8.39 a ton, not a dollar of which goes into the pockets of the workers whose labor makes the finished product. The only protection needed is simply that which would make the total cost equal. The two manufactured products being on an identical level, the same level, the only "protection" should grow out of the carrying cost.

THE NORTHERN Methodists in conference at Omaha, not content with limiting their deliberations to the doctrines and affairs of the church, seem anxious to take advantage of their power as a religious organization to assume to regulate matters of state.

Thus our dispatches of yesterday said that the committee on the state of the church "brought in a report fairly bristling with denunciation of the outrages practiced on the negroes of the south." Not a word do we find in condemnation of the deniability that provokes these outrages, and by a fair implication the negroes are encouraged in them. The brutality of the blacks towards women and girls is tacitly encouraged by the failure to point out to them the fact that by their beastly assaults on poor and helpless females these savages put themselves outside the pale of protection. The service the good people of the north should perform is to notify the black rascals that they risk their lives by such black conduct. The way to talk to them is like this from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat:

The lynching of negroes in the south who outrage white women and children will continue just as long as such crimes are perpetrated, and they will be approved by the whole country.

AN UNEXPECTED EFFECT.

The Democrats had no sooner formulated the Home Rule bill, by which they hoped and still expect the people of this territory will be relieved of most of the governmental evils under which they have so long suffered, than the Republicans rushed to the front with a crude and ill-digested measure to provide for statehood. They then sent a delegation to Washington to urge the passage of the bill, and their representatives appealed to and pleaded with members of their party in Congress to favor the bill for the good effect it would have upon the voters here. Those who framed the bill and those who went to the capital to advocate it before the committees and in the lobbies, didn't expect to get statehood. We sometimes doubt that they even want it, for our knowledge of Republican character is that the average member of that party prefers a government administered direct from Washington to home government controlled by the Democrats. The logic of the opposition was that if the Republicans in Congress would declare themselves in favor of statehood, a good many voters in this territory would fall into line with the Republican party. The plan was laid well enough at this end of the line, and if the Republicans at the other end could have been induced to participate in the game, the trick would really have resulted in some advantage to the local Republican organization, for it cannot be denied that there are many people here who would gladly join hands with that party which would lift them out of bondage and strike the shackles from their limbs. The Republicans in Congress gave the delegation and their statehood scheme the cold shoulder, and after listening to the arguments in favor of the Teller bill, the Republican members of the House Committee on Territories united in a report blasting the statehood bill and casting discredit and slander upon the people of Utah. On the other hand, all the Democrats of the committee joined in a report declaring Utah was in every respect entitled to and qualified for statehood, and should have the boon conferred. It was the Republican report to which the Democratic convention at Ogden last week referred in this resolution:

Ninth.—That this convention unqualifiedly condemns the report of the majority of the House Committee on Territories made by the Republican members of that committee for the reason that the same is false so far as it pretends to state facts. It is slanderous in so far as it seeks to discredit on the people of this territory. It is infamous in that it proposes to continue the present system of misgovernment in this territory. It deserves only the condemnation of all self-respecting citizens of this territory.

And now we want to ask why the Republican territorial convention at Provo should have done this. It is a question which does not seem to have occurred to the Republican members of the House Committee on Territories. Why did they not applaud the Republicans in Congress for that minority report which it was hoped and expected was going to do so much for the Republican party in Utah? Were the members of the g. o. p. assembled at Provo ashamed of their brethren in Congress, and did the former keep silent as to the bill and the minority report lest the people should learn the truth, that the Republican party is the same bitter enemy, the same hate of Utah that it has been for the thirty-six years of its existence? It looks like cowardice, and the people are so reading the cowardly action of the Provo convention. The "effect" which the statehood bill is having upon the citizens of the territory, by reason of the minority report above mentioned, is the bringing into the Democratic fold of those men who might otherwise have gone off with the opposition if it had not appeared that the Democracy at home, in Congress and throughout the nation, are working for the emancipation of the enslaved dependency. Utah's redemption will come through the labors of the Democracy, and the people having been convinced of this fact by the opposition which the Republicans in Congress have manifested to any sort of relief, are aligning themselves with the party which has the interests of the masses at heart. All the same, the Provo convention should have had courage to say something regarding their chief foe.

INTERESTED LOBBYISTS.

The other day when it was announced that Governor THOMAS had gone east for a "much needed rest," a gentleman who is familiar with the executive's ways said: "I wonder what sneak act the governor is going to play this time!"

THOMAS has turned up in Washington and at once gone to work lobbying against the passage of the Home Rule bill and World's fair bills, and as if by previous arrangement Colonel GODFREY, chairman of the Utah commission, meets him there and joins in the work. It is natural that these gentlemen should oppose the passage of the Home Rule bill, which proposes to legislate them out of office and throw them upon their own resources, a predicament in which neither has been placed since reaching manhood's years, while the governor has drawn pay from the federal treasury almost since his swaddling clothes.

Cannot think of two men who would be more united in their feelings by the passage of this just and fair bill. It would deprive GODFREY of the pleasure of drawing $5,000 a year and expenses for making a couple of excursions to Salt Lake during the season when profitable employment is not to be had at his Iowa home and he needs a little outing to tone up his system. He couldn't come here and connive with a minority political faction to defeat the majority at the polls. The giving of full pay to the meanness of his partisan nature would no longer count against anybody for GODFREY as a private citizen would be a very insignificant person. The governor craves the reversion to private life and the position of a nonentity, and the thought of losing the salary and perquisites attaching to office is grievous to the extreme to a man built on his plan. It is also annoying, the reflection that when this bill becomes law he will cease to lord it over a great community, nullifying their will as expressed through their representatives in the legislature. The Home Rule bill means more to these two chronic office-holders in the way of distress than to any other two men in or out of Utah. Hence it is but natural that they should be themselves to the capital and enter their names on the lists of lobbyists against the passage of the measure.

THE HERALD is not in the least exercised over their mission. It will be easy enough for congressmen to understand why GODFREY and THOMAS should oppose the bill, and the opposition of the officials named will be very apt to form an argument in favor of the bill. It will be so regarded by members who understand the situation and are familiar with the powers and duties, and how they perform them, of the commissioner and the governor.

As for the World's Fair bill, we doubt that there are twenty people in the territory who care whether it passes or fails. It has come to be a matter of supreme indifference with our citizens; since it is reasonably certain that in spite of the contemptible act of the governor, who employed the absolute veto power to prevent the territory from appearing at the exhibition, Utah will be fairly well represented in the great show.

THE FARCES.

When one witnesses the ludicrous actions of the Liberals in holding conventions and calling themselves Republicans and Democrats, and the Democrats in holding conventions and calling themselves Liberals, it is instinctively repeated. A few Liberals who were told off to play the part last night in what they were pleased to call a territorial Republican convention. Some day in the near future another platoon of Liberals who within the past few weeks have been marked and ticketed by their masters to pose for the occasion will assemble in what they will designate a territorial Democratic convention. The two farces having been played, the curtain will drop and the actors will go forth to their legitimate calling. They will be neither Democrats nor Republicans; will believe in the principles of neither of the parties named, but will be simply Liberals, hating Democrats and Republicans alike, working against the Democratic and Republican parties and voting only Liberal tickets. These people, under the direction of their bosses, are going through this play for no other object in view than to deceive the Republicans and Democrats of the nation, and that is why one repeats "what fools these mortals be!" Each of these Liberal conventions will send delegates, one to Minneapolis, the other to Chicago, where admission and recognition will be demanded, as if the Republicans and Democrats who will be in control of those great gatherings are either ignorant of the local situation or are willing to commit a great wrong by denying recognition to the real Republicans and Democrats in favor of men who are openly fighting the old parties at every election and on every day in the year save the one on which they are assigned to duty as Democrats and Republicans. Of course no notice will be taken of the Liberals at Minneapolis or Chicago. The conventions to be held in those cities next month will neither of them be Liberal. They will be Republican and Democratic gatherings, and they will receive and welcome the duly accredited delegates from the Republican and Democratic parties of Utah, closing the doors against those who may present themselves with certificates reading that they are believers in and workers with the parties one day in four years.

After all these farces, ludicrous as they are, may result in some good. Being turned back by the great political conventions, and told to return home and become Democrats and Republicans before asking affiliation with people of those faiths, perhaps some of the misguided Liberals who are permitting themselves to be used and abused and placed in false attitudes by ambitious, tricky and unscrupulous bosses may get sense and courage to escape from the spell under which they are moving; perhaps a few may become Democrats and Republicans 995 days in the year. If so, good will come where evil was intended.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

Referring again to the LUCKENBACH affidavit, charging that silver was demonetized in this country through the bribery by one SEYB, an Englishman, of Congressional committee, it is interesting to reproduce a paragraph from one of Senator STEWART's secret letters to the government, dated May 1, 1892, in which he says that Mr. LUCKENBACH of Denver avers that SEYB told him that as agent of the governors of the Bank of England he came to America with $100,000 and authority to draw as much more if necessary, the money to be used to bribe the committee to report a bill for the demonetization of silver. It is true enough that some congressmen are not paragons of virtue and integrity, but Mr. SEYB's alleged story was clearly a slander, and such a one as should have caused the listener to denounce the libeler. Mr. LUCKENBACH seems to have closely guarded the secret for twenty years, until SEYB was dead and safely under ground, when the Coloradoan makes public the slander, in the form of an affidavit, the object of which is to make it appear that the injury to silver was wrought for the purpose of helping English financiers. STEWART of Nevada, who was a member of the Senate at the time of the passage of the demonetization act in 1873, ought to know something of how the thing was done. He says, and his words are a sufficient refutation of what LUCKENBACH says SEYB told him:

In 1873 the chairman (Hon. JOHN SHERMAN) of the Finance Committee of the United States Senate visited London, the financial center of Europe, where a vast amount of national bonds and American securities were held or controlled. He then visited Paris and there wrote his celebrated letter to Mr. BIGGLES, advocating the single gold standard and the demonetization of silver. He returned to the United States and attempted to induce the Finance Committee of the Senate to recommend the demonetization of silver, but failed. He then engineered an elaborate mint bill, which the Senate, from which the silver dollar was eliminated, without one word of discussion, or suggestion from any source, that the coins of the constitution were to be tampered with. Although every other amendment of the fatal bill was read, discussed and carefully considered, the amendment of Mr. SHERMAN that demonetized silver is not recorded in the record of the proceedings found in the Congressional Globe.

JOHN SHERMAN, more than any other man in the republic, is chargeable with the wickedness of demonetizing silver. He was the chief conspirator, and Senator STEWART and others were neglectful of duty when they permitted the act to be passed.

SENATOR GORMAN, of Maryland, than whom there is no shrewder political calculator, is quoted as declaring there is an excellent chance for a Democratic Senate in 1893. And on looking into the matter the prospects are very far from discouraging. Of the eighty-eight Senators, thirty-nine are Democrats, forty-seven Republicans, and two, KYLE and PEPER, Farmers' Alliance. The terms of eleven Democrats and eighteen Republican Senators expire next year. All the Democrats will have Democratic successors. On the other hand, STOCKBRIDGE of Michigan, SAWYER of Wisconsin, HIRSHOCK of New York and SANDERS of Montana are liable to be succeeded by Democrats, which would be within one vote of a tie, where the casting vote would rest with a Democratic vice-president. For this vote we have a show in Connecticut, in Massachusetts and even in Nevada. In Massachusetts the repeal of the poll-tax has added 30,000 voters to the Democratic column, and the Democrats have a fair chance to carry the legislature. Upon the whole the outlook for a Democratic administration, including president and Congress in 1893, is exceedingly gratifying.

PUBLIC INTEREST has begun to revive in the May convention of the opponents in New York of the machine politics which resulted in what is known as the "mid-winter" convention, last February. It will meet in Syracuse the last of the month and will have 768 delegates, 128 of whom will represent New York city. It is probable that JOHN D. KIRKMAN of Utica, son of the venerable ex-Senator FRANCIS KIRKMAN, will be the temporary chairman. Among the delegates will probably be ex-Secretary FAIRCHILD, ex-Mayor GRACE, ex-Corporation Counsel BREEMAN, ex-Minister STRAUS, E. ELLIOT ANDERSON and Colonel ROBERT G. MONROE of Governor FLOWERS's staff.

The Syracuse convention will be in skillful hands, and it is well that it should be so, for if misdirected it might do CLEVELAND's cause more harm than good. If wisely handled, on the other hand, the delegation it will send to Chicago cannot fail to exercise a powerful influence, whether on or off the floor.
